Record Attendance Is Expected At State Farm Bureau Convention

The largest crowd in its history is expected at the 33rd annual convention of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, scheduled for November 16-19, at the Brown Hotel in Louisville, J. E. Stanford, St. Matthews, executive secretary of the Federation, announced this week.

"The membership in the Farm Bureau has already passed the record mark and by the end of the fiscal year, October 31, the number of farm families in Farm Bureau should exceed any previous level by many thousands," Stanford added.

"This fact, plus many vital issues on the docket, an array of entertainment, and top-notch speakers, leads us to believe that this convention will be the greatest in our history."

The convention opens Sunday, November 16, with vesper services and the annual church contest. This contest will feature choruses numbering about 30 persons each, from many counties in the state, and it is generally being considered a leading feature of the annual state convention. Commendatory certificates are scheduled for Monday afternoon. These include livestock, dairy, poultry, commercial crops and tobacco.

A king and queen will be chosen to reign over Farm Bureau Land for 1953 during the night of the Convention. Stanford added, and the talent hunt contest will be on that same night. Tuesday night, a number of stars will be held, featuring the Farm Bureau king and queen, talent winners for 1952, state and county quartet winners from Webster county, and the 1952 State Fair square dance champions from Logan county. On the same night the rural youth talk meet will be held, with district winners participating. The grand finale Tuesday night will be a square dance, sponsored by the Kentucky Farm Bureau, which will be continued. Wednesday will be devoted to a business session.

Speakers for the convention include: J. E. Stanford, executive secretary of the Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation; R. Eugene Jones, Hennessey, Okla., southern regional director of the American Farm Bureau; J. W. Washington, D. C., legislative director of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Record Vote Is Sought In Drive For School Levy

One of the biggest vote hunting drives in the history of Jefferson County is under way under the slogan of "For the sake of the children."

The campaign is for passage of the 5-to-10 cent increase in the county school tax. A similar increase has already been voted by the citizens of fifteen other Kentucky counties.

The current campaign is replete with doorbell-ringing and tours of the county schools so that citizens might see at first-hand the conditions of the schools. Those who took the bus tours of the schools expressed shock and amazement at the conditions they saw.

The proposal to be voted on November 4 would also add levy on each $100 of assessed valuation. This would find the county assessed $15,500,000. The levy would add six new junior high schools and eleven elementary schools, besides paying for rehabilitation and remodeling of many other school buildings.

Tom O. Helm and J. O. Matlick are serving as co-chairmen of the Jefferson County Citizens Committee for Better Schools.

"We have an alternative to this tax," Helm said. "It is school improvement. If it should be passed, the county schools will be forced to make drastic steps, such as double sessions, the elimination of high school classes, and the remodeling of many facilities, including lunchrooms, to make room for added student load."

SURGE PLEDGED
Both Helm and Matlick declared that the new industry coming into Jefferson County means another surge of children in the schools. Matlick attacked the claim which has been circulating that the higher tax would deter new industries from moving into the county or cause existing industries to move.

"That's foolish," he said indignantly. "Everybody knows that the tax will increase the value of taxpayers' property, which means much more in the long run than the dollars added to the tax bill."

He pointed out one of the county's problems concerning new industry is the annexation of Louisville annexes a district, the schools do not automatically go with it. It is in this district that the people have to maintain the schools.

"The people in an annexed district, pointed out Matlick, "can join the city school district at any time by voting for it at a special election or by petition of three-fourths of the persons affected. When that happens, they would be free of this county school tax."

Many leading citizens have joined in the "For the sake of the children" campaign. The Jefferson County Teachers Association groups formed teams to ring doorbells, preparing the case for the tax increase by submitting questions and answers, which takes up, step by step, the reasons for the tax and the desperate need for it.

Have you come under the influence of God's drawing power? Unless man has been drawn by God Himself that the one man is in sad condition. "No man can come to me, except the Father that sent me draw him." John 6:44.

It is not the Holy Spirit direct and without the Word. "It is written in the prophets, And they shall all be taught of God." Everyone that hath heard from the Father, and hath learned, cometh unto me." John 6:45. It is done by the Word of God. He does it through the Word, New Testament. "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto myself." John 12:32. His being lifted up on the cross is God's drawing power. When the Spirit through the New Testament tells you the sad and unfulfilled story of Calvary. God's drawing power is being exerted. FEEDER'S NOTEBOOK

By Emmett Milchen
Graduate Feeding Advisor

QUALITY EGGS PRODUCTION PAYS

Because of the recent egg market situation, it is easy to understand why some poultrymen are questioning the advisability of making the effort needed to produce clean, quality eggs. The present situation where quality eggs are selling for little or no premium is unusual, and in all probability, it will be only a short time until quality eggs will again command a higher price.

Because eggs are a food product, they must look clean and appetizing when offered to the housewife, if they are to sell readily. Just as clean, quality eggs increase the consumption of eggs, any increase in the supply of low-quality, dirty eggs will decrease the demand for eggs and result in downward pressure on the price of eggs.

Emmett Milchen
Graduate Feeding Advisor

If poultrymen are to have clean eggs to sell, one thing to bear in mind is that hens don't lay dirty eggs. Eggs get dirty if the nests and houses aren't kept clean, if hens are turned out into wet, muddy farnyards and if eggs are left in the nests indefinitely for days of birds to track over them.

In addition to keeping eggs clean, the ration fed, way of cooling, method of packing and system of marketing are very important to any program of producing quality eggs. A good balanced ration must be fed to produce eggs with desirable yolks and proper thickness of whites.

In the long run, poultrymen will profit by producing eggs that are not only good to eat, but look good to eat, too. It really doesn't take much extra effort to produce quality eggs and to keep them from getting dirty.

The competition was announced jointly by Barry Bingham, president of The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS; A. Threlkeld, president of the Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation Districts, and Wendell P. Butler, state superintendent of public instruction.

Subject for this year's essays is "How Better Soil Conservation Affects the Educational Opportunities of Kentucky's People."

Concerning the subject, Butler said: "We realize that soil conservation is a basic factor in a sound educational program for Kentucky. There is a close relationship between conservation and education of educational opportunity."

A good educational program and soil conservation go hand in hand.

The student submitting the best essay on the subject will receive a first-place state award of a $100 Savings Bond. Second prize is a $50 bond and third prize is a $25 bond. The three state award winners and their families will also be given expense-paid trips to Louisville to attend the farm survey.

In addition to the state awards, 120 district prizes of $25 bonds will be awarded to winners in each conservation district who enters at least five essays. The winning essay in each district will be submitted for judging for the state awards.

The contest closes December 20. Entries should be sent to county school superintendents by that date.

Complete information on the Soil Conservation Essay Contest may be obtained from school principals, district soil conservation supervisors or the Promotion Department, The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, Louisville 2, Kentucky.

CANT SLEEP? — then munch an apple. Crave a sweet? — reach for an apple instead. Budget "lunches" — let apples lend a hand. Menus have a tired appeal? — serve some apples!

ITS APPLE WEEK — and though total supplies of apples are down for this year, there should be plenty to go round, prices are lower now than they will be later after additional charges for storage must be paid.

NOTE FOR VARIETY — the growers have supplied a kind to suit your needs and flavor favorite. Check for yourself several apple candidates learn to identify and use the one you like best.

Apple-purposely apples serve you best when you buy a quantity—choose from Jonathan, McIntosh, York, Rome, Golden Delicious, Even Red Delicious may be used for cooking when prepared covered in pie and topped or stewed in covered pan, sugar added last.

QUANTITY SELECTION will depend on the size of your family and the storage space you have. A pound of apples gives you 2 to 3 apples, depending on size, will yield about 3 cups of sliced apples. A bushel of apples weighs 48 to 50 pounds, gives from 100 to 175 apples, is most economical because of lower cost per pound. Half-bushel cartons are available, as are 3 to 5 pound bags of apples, good selections for the smaller size family.

NOTE FOR COOL KEEPING—whether it's a bushel or a pound to store. For a few apples, you'll find they keep best in the refrigerator. Keeping cups include temperature of 45 to 60 degrees F., good circulation of air, moisture if possible.

APPLES FOR THE MAIN course — use apples as the star character in such dishes as baked with squash, as apple fritters, in souffles, or baked with sweet potatoes. Make apple stuffing this way: Fill pocketed pork chops, with mince, or in boneless pork shoulder: 1/4 cup dried salt pork, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 1/2 cup chopped parsley, 5 medium size tart apples, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 cups soft bread cubes. Cook salt pork in fry pan until crisp, remove from fat. Cook onion and parsley in fat for few minutes. Place chopped apples in the pan.

ALL School Children Eligible To Compete In 9th Soil Contest

Students in Kentucky grade and high schools are eligible to compete for $3,175 in United States Savings Bonds in the ninth annual Soil Conservation Essay Contest.

The competition was announced jointly by Barry Bingham, president of The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS; A. Threlkeld, president of the Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation Districts, and Wendell P. Butler, state superintendent of public instruction.

Subject for this year's essays is "How Better Soil Conservation Affects the Educational Opportunities of Kentucky's People."

Concerning the subject, Butler said: "We realize that soil conservation is a basic factor in a sound educational program for Kentucky. There is a close relationship between conservation and education of educational opportunity."

A good educational program and soil conservation go hand in hand.

The student submitting the best essay on the subject will receive a first-place state award of a $100 Savings Bond. Second prize is a $50 bond and third prize is a $25 bond. The three state award winners and their families will also be given expense-paid trips to Louisville to attend the farm survey.

In addition to the state awards, 120 district prizes of $25 bonds will be awarded to winners in each conservation district who enters at least five essays. The winning essay in each district will be submitted for judging for the state awards.

The contest closes December 20. Entries should be sent to county school superintendents by that date.

Complete information on the Soil Conservation Essay Contest may be obtained from school principals, district soil conservation supervisors or the Promotion Department, The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, Louisville 2, Kentucky.

High View Baptist Mission Dedicated Sunday

BATES LANE NEWS
By Mrs. L. M. Bishop

Truly, Sunday was a great day for the High View Baptist Mission. We dedicated our new church building to the Lord and His work. There were 15 to 20 churches represented at this service and about 300 guests present. Greetings were sent by wire from the Gold Coast, West Africa, from Rev. Harlan McGinnis and family, former pastor of Meadow Home Baptist Church, and Rev. J. O. Watson and family, former pastor of the Mission, from Rosario, Argentina, both missionaries to the countries. We wish both families could have been present as they worked so hard to get the mission started.

We wish to thank Mr. Reynolds, of Buechel Florist, for the lovely basket of flowers he sent and Lee's Lane Baptist Church who also sent a beautiful basket.

We also appreciate all the friends who were present. The Lord has truly blessed us. Bro. J. O. Causey and family and Bro. Borders were Monday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Beck and Tuesday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Peers.

Warrant Officer James R. Gibson and wife, of Ft. Knox, were Friday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tutt.

Don't Plow Under 20 YEARS OF FARM PROSPERITY

America's big country. At the beginning of 1932 there were 156,000,000 of us—with 7,000 newcomers daily.

Feeding that many mouths is a big job—a job that rests squarely on our nation's farmers.

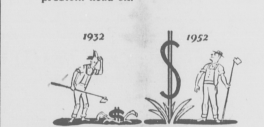

We can have a healthy people or a healthy economy, unless our farmers prosper. Today they are prospering and we all benefit by it.

But it didn't just happen. It wasn't always this way.

1932 POVERTY and CHAOS
In 1932 the average American farmer earned 80 cents a day. The price of wheat was the lowest in 400 years. Corn fell to less than 15 cents, cotton and wool to 5 cents, sugar to 3 cents and beef to 2½ cents.

It was cheaper to burn corn for fuel in the Midwest than to try to sell it and buy coal.

The Democratic Party tackled the problem head-on.

THE ROAD TO PROSPERITY
Here's how the Party strengthened America by building up its farm economy:

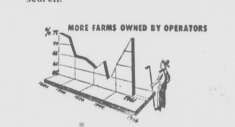

- 1 Encouraged farmers to raise adequate supplies. Insured them against price drops that could wipe them out, destroyed their productivity. Today basic farm products are supported at 90% of parity.
- 2 Established soil conservation service. Today four out of five of the nation's farms are included in the program. Almost 78 million acres of farm and pasture land have been restored, protected and improved under Democratic administration programs.

3 Helped farmers to own their own farms. For 50 years the trend had been the other way—toward tenant farming. More than 2,000,000 farmers have been encouraged to own their farms by loan help from the Farmers Home Administration.

4 Brought electricity to the farm. In 1932 only one farm out of ten had electric power. Today only one out of ten does not have it. The Rural Electrification Administration did the job.

5 Extended farm credit at moderate interest rates so that farmers could improve and expand their production.

6 Expanded Federal agricultural research.

A GREAT DAY FOR AMERICA

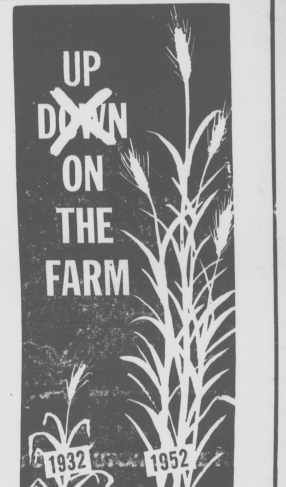

The results have been:

Our farm output has increased 50% since 1932. In 1920 there were only 920,000 tractors on American farms. Today there are 4,000,000. Today there are 2½ times as many trucks, 10 times as many mechanical compactors and 13 times as many grain combines on America's farms as there were in 1932.

Net income for the average farmer stood at nearly $2,800 in 1951—almost ten times what it was in 1932. Allowing for the rise in prices farmers pay, the average farmer's income is four times what it was in 1932 and double what it was in 1929—the peak year of Republican prosperity.

Farm prosperity has been matched by the rest of our economy. People have jobs. Business is prospering. There is money to buy what our farms produce. Increased farm income has sent millions of rural Americans into the marketplace to buy what our cities produce.

We're eating more and eating better. Though we have grown by 30 million people since 1932 our per capita consumption of all foods is 13% higher than the 1935-39 average!

Republicans Against The Farmer

Where did the Republican Party fit into this march of progress? Here is what it did:

- 1 Reduced the number of commodities on which definite price supports were assured. (80th Congress.)
- 2 Reduced parity for several important commodities. (80th Congress.)
- 3 Reduced price floors by putting in a sliding scale of 60 to 90 percent of parity. (80th Congress.)
- 4 Prevented the Commodity Credit Corporation from acquiring new storage facilities to enable farmers to get price support loans. (80th Congress.)
- 5 Voted against an improved Soil Conservation Act in 1936. Voted to withhold on conservation payments in 1943. The 80th Congress voted to abolish soil conservation in 1948. The 80th Congress voted to cut the program in half.
- 6 Voted to kill the farm ownership loan program in 1947.

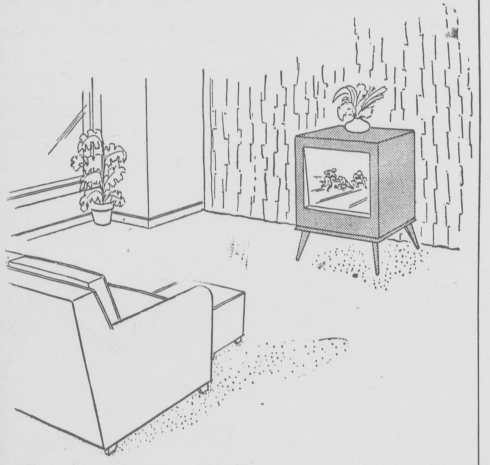

7 Voted to cut off one-third of the staff of the Rural Electrification Administration in 1947.

8 Voted to cut the budget of the Research and Marketing Administration by one half.

Whether you're a farmer, worker, businessman or professional man—no matter how or where you earn your living, you're better off today because farmers are prospering.

Which party had the foresight and courage to do the job? You can see for yourself.
